Globe-Trotting Dance Show
Comes to Downtown Phoenix Theater

"The World Dances!" takes theater-goers on a multicultural dance journey.

PHOENIX, Arizona -- , Feb. 13, 2012 - You don't need to speak the language to enjoy a culture's dance. This concept will bring global dance styles together on the stage for the March 31st production of "The World Dances! A Celebration of the Universal Language:" at the Viad Playhouse in the Park.

She's Got Hips Productions has assembled a diverse cast of professionals from around the country to stage this unique multicultural event. Performers include Raks al Anwar Lebanese Folk Troupe from California, Michelle al Farfasha from New Mexico, and A'isha Azar from Washington along with Zahr Jamil Middle Eastern Dance Company, Divine Chaos Tribal, Maguire Irish Dance, Riyasha Dulat presenting Indian styles and Almagul Temirtekova's dances of Central Asia.

A lifelong dancer and Middle Eastern dance professional. Mahin Sciacca launched this project to show the power and variety of dance. "In our shrinking world, we are increasingly aware of our human diversity. 'The World Dances!' is a window into the shared human experience of dance and a celebration of its many forms. We invite people to come take a trip around the world - right from their theater seat!"
